

Speak Up 2010 – Open October 18th – December 17th, 2010

“Nationwide feedback gathered from Project Tomorrow’s Speak Up surveys highlights the significant role technology can play in improving student learning. This year’s survey results will provide valuable data resources for Indiana educators and will establish high-quality 21st Century learning environments for our students. Hoosier participation is vital to this success.”

— Dr. Tony Bennett, Indiana Superintendent of Public Instruction

Why participate?

- Receive free, online access to your survey results in Feb 2011. You can view results by school or district with national comparisons.
- Obtain valuable data with national benchmarks, use the data to design or update programs, secure funding, support grant proposals, engage your business community in new initiatives, learn what’s important to your students, parents, teachers & administrators.
- Become part of the national movement to include the views of students, educators and parents in the national, state and local dialogue about key education issues.

Take the Survey!

- Beginning October 18th, you can take the survey at <http://www.speakup4schools.org/speakup2010/>
- Instructions for taking the survey:
 - Select the survey you would like to take (students, teachers & administrators, parents)
 - Enter your state and first few characters of your school’s name click on “Find School” button
 - Click on your school’s name and type in your password click on “Log In” button

Your survey password is:

su4indiana

Speak Up 2010 is generously underwritten this year by the following innovative companies:

Blackboard[®] K-12

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN HARCOURT